Solar Floodlight W/ Heat And Motion Sensor

No wiring required

Senses heat and motion, won't be activated by blowing leaves

Works for approximately 2 weeks without any sun
High power CRYSTAL solar panel

Want to install a motion- and heat-sensing solar floodlight without having to hire an electrician to wire it? Install this solar powered security light anywhere around your home without wiring hassles or expensive battery replacement! This maintenance-free security light uses solar energy to power the long lasting, bright, energy-efficient halogen bulb, so you won't be left in the dark.

Install a Solar Floodlight with Heat & Motion Sensor near each of your entryways and you can be sure that your family can enter and exit your home safely, even when there's a power outage. The Solar Floodlight is powered by a rechargeable lead acid battery, which is included.

Don't worry about cloudy skies, because the Solar Floodlight works for approximately 2 weeks without ANY sunlight (at an average of eight 30-second light intervals each night)! A built-in motion and heat sensor turns the light on for people, but not for swaying tree branches. You can adjust the sensitivity of the sensor to pick up a full 90° horizontally, at a distance of up to 30 feet. Set the darkness level to keep the light from coming on too early in the evening or too late at night.

Choose either a 30- or 60-second duration for the light to remain on after the last motion detected. A 14-foot cable between the solar panel and the light lets you place the security light where you need it, while allowing the solar panel to be installed facing
